Ans. The following things were found in the various pockets of the young man's overcoat: a small black comb, a handkerchief, six annas and a few pies, a half-smoked cigarette, a little diary in which names and addresses of a few people were noted, a list of gramophone records and a few handbills.

Q.12: What did the young man do at the music shop?

Ans. The young man examined a Spanish guitar with an air of a connoisseur and studied the price label attached to it. Then he lifted the cover of the keyboard of a huge German piano and played a few notes.

Q.13: What was the condition of the overcoat worn by the young man?

Ans: The overcoat of the young man was old but well-cut. Its material was of good quality. The lapels were stiff and sleeves well creased. The buttons were made of horn. They were big and shiny.

Lesson 15The Angel and the Author - and Others (Jerome K. Jerome)

Q.1: At what point of journey in his dream did the author hear the throbbing sound of wings?

Ans. The author heard the throbbing sound of the wings when nothing remained but a faint luminosity buried beneath darkness.

Q.2: What time of the year was it?

Ans. It was January, a fortnight after Christmas.

Q.3: What does the author like about Christmas? [BISE Lhr. 2014]

Ans. During Christmas time people become good and generous. They do a lot of noble deeds and help the poor and the needy. This is what the author likes about Christmas.

Q.4. Write down the good deeds the author has admitted are a great joy on Christmas?

Ans. The good deeds the author has admitted are a great joy on Christmas are nobility and generosity of the people towards the needy and the poor; like the child giving Bovril to the shivering street Arab and the squire shoveling out plum pudding to the crowd of grateful villagers.

Q.5: Why are the noble deeds always a great joy for the author? [BISE Lhr. 2016]

Ans. Noble deeds are always a great joy to the author because they promote love and good will. They provide satisfaction of conscience and are a source of true pleasure and happiness.
